May 14, 2013

2013 Monterey Design Conference

Internationally acclaimed architects Odile Decq of France, Marcio Kogan, Hon. FAIA of Brazil and Kengo Kuma, Hon. FAIA of Japan join a stellar group of North American designers for Monterey Design Conference 2013. The conference offers participants three days of talks by–and relaxed conversations with– internationally and nationally significant architects. Visit the newly-designed Monterey Design Conference website and Register today!
The Legislative Voice of the AIACC

Each year, the California State Legislature introduces over 2,000 new bills by the third week of February. Each of these are intended to provide some benefit or opportunity for at least some constituencies of our society, however, they can also... Read more

A Conversation with Seven State Agencies

Capital outlay is the State of California's investment into the future. From buildings to infrastructure, state agencies and departments undertake a complex process to obtain legislative authorization and funding. Read more

2013 Virtual Convention: June 20-22, 2013

Ever want to attend an AIA Convention but not had the time or wherewithal to devote to days away from your life here? Now, that can be remedied with the AIA Virtual Convention. ... Read more

First in Class

Introducing the first-zero-energy classroom in North America - The Marin Country Day School (MCDS) is the first zero-energy classroom building in North America. “Zero energy” ... Read more

Upcoming Events

California Custom Housing Architects to Meet at PCBC in San Diego

June 4, 2013 - 12:00-4:00 pm
San Diego Convention Center

One of the most valuable benefits of AIA membership is the ability to network with peers. While this occurs at the local level and virtually through the National AIA Knowledge Communities, members have been asking for a way to connect on issues of statewide concern. Read more

Most Viewed Content on AIACC.org

Continuing Education
Professional Resources
Project Leads