December 18, 2013

70th AIA Gold Medal Awarded

AIA awards its 70th Gold Medal to the 1st female architect. Read on . . .
How do the effective dates postponed affect you? Read on . . .

Don’t forget this resource available to you. Read on . . .

AecKnowledge

The place for CE Units and Insights. Read on . . .

Small Firms

From buzzwords to common sense, Synthesis Design + Architecture has some advice for the emerging professional. Read on . . .

Passings

The design community, and the public at large, lost two notable architects this month. Henrik Bull, FAIA, of Berkeley, died on Dec. 3 after battling an illness. He was 84. New Orleans architect Allen Eskew, FAIA, died Dec. 10. He was 65.

Most Viewed Content on AIACC.org

2013 AIACC Residential Awards Recipients
Continuing Education
Parametric Design "A Brief History"
Project Leads