2017 First Vice-President / President-Elect
Candidate Philosophy
Britt Lindberg, AIA, LEED AP

These qualities have been the core of my local and state level AIA service. I would be honored to continue the long line of strong AIACC leaders, and bring these to service as 2017 First Vice-President / President-Elect.

The pace of the profession is changing rapidly, with the onset of new technologies, increasingly complex projects, pressure for tighter budgets and schedules, emergence of a global economy, need for resource efficiency, and competition for retaining and inspiring talent.

The projects we design are crucial to our clients' and communities' success, yet our message on the importance, process, and value of what we do must be stronger.

This will be my focus, through:

- Pro-actively advocating the value of design and services, to clients and the public, including sharing more case studies and data;
- Improving member, chapter, agency, and allied communications and engagement;
- Promoting transparency, collaboration, and shared focus across all AIA levels.

As architects we are all communicators on behalf of our profession. As an organization of over 11,000 members, the AIACC has much power to drive the profession forward. Let's move forward, together. Thank you for your support!
